

Deconstructing Captivities: Indigenous Women Reshaping Spirituality and Justice

A Lecture by:

Sylvia Marcos

Dr. Sylvia Marcos is the Director of the Center for Psycho-ethnological Research in Cuernavaca, Mexico where she is a practicing clinical psychologist. She is also a visiting professor of religion at Claremont Graduate University. Dr. Marcos is the author of many books and articles including, most recently, Taken from the lips: Gender and Eros in Mesoamerican Religion (2006) and the co-edited volume, Dialogue and Difference: Feminisms Challenge Globalization (2005).

THURSDAY, APRIL 24TH
3:30P.M.—5 P.M.
2043 INTN

Sponsored by:

Latin American Studies, Religious Studies and Women's Studies

Light refreshments will be provided.